

I AL DLAN

FOR MEN

NOTE: THIS IS Not a custom meal plan

We can't stress this enough: You need to eat the right amount for YOUR body size, YOUR goals, and YOUR activity level.

If you do not eat the correct portions based on these factors you may not get the kind of fitness results you want.

Here's a simple way to calculate your calorie needs:

You want to gain muscle	Your Ideal weight X	17	= the amount of calories you should aim for
You want to maintain your size	Your Ideal weight X	15	= the amount of calories you should aim for
You want to lose fat	Your Ideal weight X	13	= the amount of calories you should aim for

- This meal plan is based on a 2,200 calorie per day diet.
- You must customize it to YOUR calorie needs. If you don't customize you may be disappointed with your results.
- If you don't know how to customize or need help doing so, check out our coaching program at LiveLeanTV.com/coaching
- IMPORTANT: You'll get the best results if your calories & macros match your body size, goals and activity level.
- The rational behind the meal planning is that you have your higher calorie and higher carb meals on Training Days, and lower calorie, lower carb meals on Recovery Days. Typically we have our highest calorie & carb days on our highest intensity training days, for example a "Leg Day".
- You'll see that cheat day is a Training Day and we encourage you to train hard on that day. It's best to save your cheat meal for AFTER your training.

- You don't have to follow any specific meal order or timing, except for the post workout shake, which should be consumed within 45 minutes of your workout ending. Just eat the rest of the meals and snacks whenever you want throughout the day.
- You don't have to workout exactly 5 days per week, some weeks can be 4x, other weeks can be 6x, it's flexible, just follow the training day or rest day meal plans according to whether you train or not. If you're looking for a workout program to follow check out LiveLeanTV.com/store
- Don't be anal. All calorie and macro information is estimated, don't obsess over the numbers, just try to stay within the ballpark.
- Enjoy your cheat meals. Like REAL cheat meals. We know you know that wheat, dairy, and processed foods aren't good for you, but once per week is not going to do you any damage. This should be a social outting, not you sitting in your basement downing 10 boxes of krispy cream donuts. There should be no leftovers from your cheat meal, if you can't finish it, toss the rest. Have a meal you've been craving, enjoy it to the fullest and then get back on track with the next meal.

Note: If your goal is muscle gain and you need more carbs/calories then add 2 tbsp Maple Syrup to your post-workout shake. This will add an additional:

CHEAT MEAL GUIDE:

- There is no calorie restriction or goal for a cheat meal. It's also not intended to be a Binge. We suggest you eat a "normal" portion for 1 person.
- Enjoy a meal plus maybe one drink or dessert, and then get back on track.
- Make sure you use it to socialize with friends or family. Don't be a hermit.
- Drink extra water to help you flush out the excess salt or sugar you may be consuming so you won't feel all bloated in the morning.
